all the resources

Community Resource Fairs

I loved this one. The conversation and passion was great.

Day and time of meeting

It is super helpful having different agencies/organizations/individuals sharing information during these.

Having more information about community providers and what they can do to support our families is invaluable.

Wow! Today's meeting. I was glued to my laptop! I caught myself saying out loud, "Yes!"

We have a great group

The amount of discussion around various topics and discussing some of the hard stuff is great to be a part of.

Informative information

bringing a diversity of providers together to discuss current issues, concerns and accomplishments in finding appropriate services for kids and families

The time and the platform work for me!

online

Virtual meetings.

Things that are working are having these big talks and making people aware of what's going on.

Insite into what is happening all over the state.

It is a great opportunity to connect with community partners and have larger conversations about systems issues.

This meeting was informative and helpful all of it! I love that you offer GC to attendees from that diverse site, you have good organizations present, and allow everyone to share their thoughts and resources. I have learned a lot here and made good contacts.

Monthly meeting, coaching and training.

Good presentations this week and good information.

Q2 What could we do better?

getting more resources available to rural communities

Crosswalk We as providers struggle to refer to places such as Crosswalk with fear of exploitation and victimization. What are the plans to move forward and keep the youth safe?

it was great no ideas currently

It would be helpful for INBH, BEST, and RISE to come speak and provide information. May people have questions regarding these agencies.

i like the idea of a meeting focused on no resources for kids in crisis. might be good to see if the DDA crisis management person in our area would be willing to share information about current capacity here and process for getting kids into appropriate placement.

We talked about respite today, and I know that this is a passionate topic. I feel that it comes down to a location/process and reimbursement from MCOs. Not necessarily an agenda item, but bringing this to legislation and naming it what it is...hospital diversion...might give some people thoughts about how this can be funded. I do equine therapy at Second Change Ranch, and I work with Katie Merwick. We just had a lethal means training out there and she is trying to make connections in the community. It would be great to have her come present! I am happy to connect. kayla.barringer@excelsiorwellness.org

Have Special Mobility Services/Independence Travel Training program present.

Crosswalk youth shelter is opening a new location with more resources next year dealing with rural communities and what to do about services

Discuss what we can do as providers when the insurance dictates what meets medical necessity (like overrides on the CANS)

More on how we are going to support out at risk youth in the NE Region

transitional age youth resources

INBH especially since the closure of PCCA

All the parent groups and times that the community can access at all agencies.

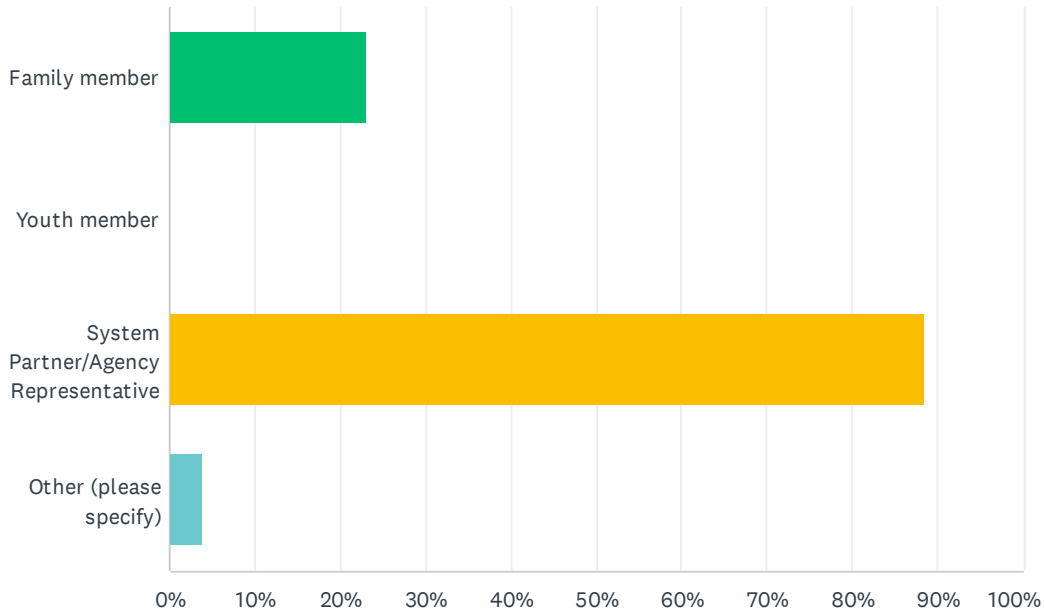

I did share with Becky a contact from Job Corps, so that may be on the agenda soon. Great resource for 16 to 24 year olds. I worked for one of the campuses as a counselor years ago, so am always happy to be a resource.

N/A

I would like to remind people not to turn in requests for WISE services to more than one agency. Only one screen is needed and then the person can go to the first available agency with that screen. They do not need to get multiple CANS Screens for each agency.
